SEMC Chooses NewSolutions for Functionality and Reputation

Bennie Hoppus, CEO, SEMC FCU, recently contracted with Share One to convert from their legacy core processing system to NewSolutions. Hoppus selected the system based on a number of functionality issues; closest to the top of the list was the Windows based operating platform. “We were careful to choose a system that was user friendly, integrated easily with other system processes, and provides easy data mining functionality. We explored other systems that had many similar features but what cinched the deal for us was the reputation of Share One’s commitment to service after the sale,” said Hoppus.

Hoppus and her team want to grow the SEMC membership base and believe they can achieve this goal with targeted marketing efforts. The desire to extract intelligent assessments of current product and service usage was a key concern. “The NewSolutions system allows a user to simply use a point and click process from the desktop to obtain system reports immediately that now takes a request to the IT department to extract from our current system. Executing a marketing promotion based on system data will be much easier and we expect to see great results,” said Hoppus.

Scott Eungard, VP Sales and Marketing, Share One said, “Our mission is to help credit unions reach their full potential. The horsepower NewSolutions delivers provides any credit union the ability to innovate products and services to respond to the unique needs of their members. NewSolutions is easy to operate, integrate and we back it with the expertise necessary to execute a conversion and day-to-day operations. We are committed to helping SEMC define and achieve their specific growth goals because their success is our success.”
