Regulation Z Blog and Information Resource Web Page

The Credit Card Act also known as Regulation Z, has consumed the credit union industry for the past several months. Share One has worked to provide tools within the statement program so that our clients can be compliant with the Reg. Z requirements.

Because of the different interpretations of this regulation, we have created a blog and information resource center on the Share One Web site so clients can express their opinions and learn more about the issues surrounding this latest legislature. It was our intent to provide varied opinions of the regulation.

We encourage you to use this area to communicate with other NewSolutions users and review the latest information regarding Regulation Z.
